Mohd Roslan Rosnon is Senior Lecturer of Social Anthropology at the Department of Social and Development Sciences, Faculty of Human Ecology, Universiti Putra Malaysia (UPM). He currently a Head, Department of Social and Development Sciences, Faculty of Human Ecology, University Putra Malaysia. He obtained his PhD in Anthropology and Sociology from University of South Australia (2016), MSc. in Community Development (2011), BSc. Human Development with Minor Community Development (2008) and Diploma in Human Development (2005) from the Universiti Putra Malaysia (UPM).

Since joining the academic staff of UPM in 2011, he has nurtured and developed his research interest and core expertise primarily in minority studies, specializing in the Orang Asli (Indigenous people) community of Malaysia. The main thrust of his expertise is social development of minority communities in Malaysia. Over the years, he has extended his interest on minority studies by studying various ethnic minority communities in the country, including some selected native groups in Sabah and Sarawak. His research work also focuses on Indigenous Education Policy and minority rights especially within the UN system among the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander People in Australia. His extended research interest on the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander People in Australia starts from his extensive research work of the mentioned group during his PhD in Adelaide, South Australia. In doing so, he has established himself as one of the leading experts in minority studies especially Orang Asli community, a highly relevant and critical field in multi-ethnic societies such as Malaysia to ensure social cohesion and inclusive development. This is in keeping with the cutting-edge knowledge in the field, and with social policies of inclusive and sustainable development as articulated in the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) 2030.

As expression of his expertise, Roslan lectures in Sociology and Social Anthropology; Community Development and Society, Development and Environment. Roslan adapts his teaching to be congruent with fieldwork approaches. To date, he has successfully graduated 14 undergraduate students (as Final Year Project supervisor) and supervise 19 postgraduate students (6 as main supervisor – 2 graduated). His outstanding achievement in supervision earned him and his students Diamond Award in Thesis in 5 Minutes and Silver Award at Postgraduate Research & Innovation Poster Competition. His dedication in teaching and learning earned him 2 Gold in Putra InnoCreative Competition in Teaching and Learning (PicTL) 2019.

Roslan's active research and consultancy initiatives earned 22 grants (6 as principal investigator) amounting to RM 2.2 million from local, private, and international fund providers. Roslan has conducted research among ethnic minorities in Malaysia and published numerous peer reviewed scientific papers and book chapters on issues of education, consumerism, digital divide, and identity crisis in Malaysia since 2008. In publication, he has more than 28 journal papers in cited and referred journal, 2 books, 2 edited books, 12 chapters in book, 29 proceedings, 3 modules, 2 intellectual property (copyright) and 14 popular writings (magazine and newspapers). At international level, Roslan has presented papers that include plenary addresses in conferences in USA, UK, Australia, Singapore, China, and Indonesia.

His outstanding achievement in research and publications earned him the Vice Chancellor Fellowship Award – Young Researcher Awards (Cluster Social Sciences and Humanities) 2019, Promising Lecturer Award 2017 and National Book Award 2019, Best Paper Award at Kuala Lumpur International Communication, Education, Language & Social Science Conference 2016, 1 Bronze Medal (2012) and 2 Bronze Medal (2011) Exhibition of Research Design & Innovation 2011, 1 Gold and 2 Bronze at The 6th Southeast Asian Reginal Agricultural Engineering Student Chapter Annual Reginal Convention 2020. He currently sits on the editorial board for several academic journals such as International Journal of Humanities, Philosophy and Language (IJHPL), TRANS-KATA: Journal of Language, Literature, Culture and Education, Malaysia Correctional Journal and Humanities and Social Sciences Review (HSSR)

As an anthropologist, Roslan has considerable strength in the application of qualitative methods of data collection, analyses and report writing. He has also conducted several training and academic workshops in qualitative methodologies in university and government organization. With such expertise and contribution, Roslan has built a fine reputation and earned the respect in the academic and policy circles, as well as among civil society groups. He has in fact been given the trust to deliver plenary addresses and invited speaker in national and international conferences or program. He has been a voice of conscience upholding social justice and unity for ethnic minorities in Malaysia throughout his academic career and advocacy work. He is also actively involved in community work. His outstanding achievement in community and Industry work earned him 2 High Impact Project (Community & Industry – Orang Asli Project) 2019, 1 High Impact Project (Community & Industry – Felda Project) 2020 and High Impact Project Community & Industry Awards, ICAN 2019 – Best Community Partner.
